

Cambridge, 10th November 2020

To whom it may concern,

Re: University of Cambridge, Bioinformatics Training Facility

It is my pleasure to confirm that Marco Chiapello (Raven ID mc983) attended the following training courses conducted at the University of Cambridge, Bioinformatics Training Facility located in Cambridge, United Kingdom.

- An Introduction to Solving Biological Problems with PERL
(10th – 11th March 2016)
- Using the Ensembl Genome Browser
(14th March 2016)
- Molecular Phylogenetics
(20th – 22nd April 2016)
- Analysis of single cell RNA-seq data
(22nd June 2016)
- Beginners guide to version control with git
(22nd July 2016)
- Software Carpentry: Instructor training
(19th – 20th September 2016)
- R object orientated programming and package development
(30th September 2016)
- EMBL-EBI: Exploring Protein Sequence and Functional Information with UniProt
(24th October 2016)

Best regards,

Dr Matt Castle
Bioinformatics Training Facility Manager
Department of Genetics
University of Cambridge
Downing Site, Downing Street
Cambridge, CB2 3EH
United Kingdom

Email: mdc31@cam.ac.uk